

Waste Water Treatment Plant in Ann Arbor Walsh Construction Company

Partnership Signing: November 14, 2012
As of March 31, 2013 this project logged 27,760 hours.

This is a 5 year renovation project at the existing Waste Water Treatment Plant in Ann Arbor. Renovations include rehabilitating existing flow control structures, complete demolition and replacement of primary and secondary treatment equipment and construction of new buildings.

Walsh Construction

Ironworkers are tied off 100%

Innovative Best Practices/Safety Initiatives:

- 100% Fall Protection over 6 feet (including steel erection and roof work)
- 100% Eye Protection
- All crane operators are Certified Crane Operators (CCO)
- Substance Abuse Testing